This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. Foreword

S an evidence of the spirit which its name implies, this little book is presented to the people of New York by the Department of Public Welfare. Regardless of other affiliations, we know that the citizens of New York are keenly interested in the charities of their city and have expectantly awaited the knowledge of how their money is spent for this great cause. As the first attempt in the history of the Department to list in directory form the municipal forms of relief and the private charities directly connected with the city, we offer this book with many apologies, while we assure its readers that we know there are many errors to be corrected in the revised edition.

In the field of relief work there is not only opportunity for co-operation between public and private agencies, but an absolute necessity that this co-operation be carried on whole-heartedly and intelligently.

Public charities must be ready to do all things for all people, regardless of creed, station in life, color or nationality. It must be so organized that no one who needs its assistance shall be turned away unaided. It must work along those plans of relief which have been sanctioned by the definite expressions of the community. Private charity, on the other hand, from its very nature can deal with specialized forms of relief; it can experiment with new ideas, and through experiment educate the public to a realization of the worthiness of its cause; but above all, private charity holds within its power the stabilizing influence of the community—the moral and religious life of its citizens. So long as the private charities emphasize the force of religion in life, just so long will they be able to express their fullest value in terms of relief.

With all the new forms of interest injected into the life of our community during the last few years, the basic private charities are likely to have been forgotten, if they have ever been known to the public at large in their entirety. Many people do not realize the extent of their problems and the various points at which they touch municipal departments. Through this directory we hope to give some idea of the magnitude of this work and to recall to the attention of the public the necessity for their adequate support.

The co-operation which we have received from the private charities has been most cordial and helpful. We trust that they feel our attitude has been sympathetic and co-operative, and we hope that through the closer association of both of us the public and the poor of this great city will be better served.

President—William R. Stewart, 31 Nassau Street.

Secretary—Charles H. Johnson, Office, The Capitol, Albany, N. Y.

Superintendent—N. Y. City Office, John B. Prest.

Purpose—"The State Board of Charities, a constitutional body required by law to visit, inspect and maintain a general supervision of all institutions, societies or associations which are of a charitable, eleemosynary, correctional or reformatory character, whether state or municipal, incorporated or not incorporated, which are made subject to its supervision by the constitution or by law; and shall

"1. Aid in securing the just, humane and economic administration of all institutions subject to its supervision.

"2. Advise the officers of such institutions in the performance of their official duties.

"3. Aid in securing the erection of suitable buildings for the accommodation of the inmates of such institutions aforesaid.

Hosted by Google

"4. Approve or disapprove the organization and incorporation of all institutions of a charitable, eleemosynary, correctional or reformatory character which are or shall be subject to the supervision and inspection of the board.

"5. Investigate the management of all institutions made subject to the supervision of the board, and the conduct and efficiency of the officers or persons charged with their management, and the care and relief of the inmates of such institutions therein or in transit.

"6. Aid in securing the best sanitary conditions of the buildings and grounds of all such institutions, and advise measures for the protection and preservation of the health of the inmates.

"7. Aid in securing the establishment and maintenance of such industrial, educational and moral training in institutions having the care of children as is best suited to the needs of the inmates.

"8. Establish rules for the reception and retention of inmates of all institutions which, by section fourteen of article eight of the constitution, are subject to its supervision.

"9. Investigate the condition of the poor seeking public aid and advise measures for their relief.

"10. Administer the laws providing for the care, support and removal of state and alien poor and the support of Indian poor persons.

"11. Collect statistical information in respect to the property, receipts and expenditures of all institutions, societies and associations subject to its supervision, and the number and condition of the inmates thereof, and of the poor receiving public relief."

In addition to the foregoing the Board is invested with power to approve or disapprove proposed certificates of incorporation of charitable institutions or organizations; to issue licenses to dispensaries, and to homes for the care of aged, decrepit and feeble-minded persons who are not proper subjects for care and treatment in a hospital for the insane, and for cause may revoke such licenses. Besides discharging these duties, it exercises such other functions as the supervision of placing out dependent children and the approval of plans for the construction of buildings for charitable institutions, and is authorized, subject to approval by the Governor, to transfer inmates from one State charitable institution to another.

SCHOOLS OF NURSING

The Department maintains four schools of nursing:

City Hospital School of Nursing on Blackwell's Island.

Cumberland Street Hospital School of Nursing, Brooklyn.

Kings County Hospital School of Nursing, Brooklyn.

Metropolitan Hospital School of Nursing, Blackwell's Island.

In 1919 a General Superintendent of Nurses was appointed to co-ordinate and develop the nursing interests. The President of the Alumnæ has been appointed on the Advisory Board of each school. The annual vacation period has been increased to four weeks and the hours of work reduced to approximately eight hours. The probationers' uniforms are supplied and students are provided with text books. The allowance has been increased to $18.00, $20.00 and $23.00 a month. A lunch is served each day at 10 and 4 o'clock.

The longer vacation, the shorter hours, the better food and the lunches all tend to keep the young women in better health; while the increased allowance, the probationary outfit and the giving of books during the course make it possible for the students to take the training without feeling the continual financial strain which many of them have felt heretofore.

A post-graduate course in Public Health and Social Service has been established at Hunter College. This is an eight months' course—two semesters—and is open to the graduates of all the city schools. There is no tuition fee, the students live in the Nurses' Home and are given the same money allowance as the senior student nurses.

Training Schools for Attendants

An epoch-making step in the progress of nursing was the establishment of schools for the training of attendants. Four such schools have been established. These schools are all in special institutions and do not conflict in any way with the Schools of Nursing. The dates on which the attendants' schools were opened are as follows:

School	Date	No. of Pupils at Time of Opening
The Central Neurological School, Blackwell's Island	July 1, 1919	26
The Randall's Island School, Randall's Island	July 1, 1919	12
The Sea View School, Staten Island	Jan. 1, 1920	26
The Greenpoint Hospital School, Brooklyn, N. Y.	July 1, 1920	4

In the first graduating classes from the three older schools there were forty-seven who received certificates. These Schools for Attendants were established to give better nursing care to the sick in special institutions where the majority of the patients do not require the services of the highly skilled trained nurse. These trained attendants will revolutionize the care of the sick in these institutions and will give to the community women who are trained to render certain nursing care at such rates as should make it possible for the average citizen to employ them.

HOSPITAL SOCIAL SERVICE

Medical Social Service continues to the patient beyond the hospital walls the oversight and assistance he obtained within them. Provision is made for proper care and surroundings during convalescence; assistance is secured for the dependent family; necessary surgical appliances are afforded as well as the special nourishments often required, and suitable employment is obtained.

A provision of its Charter forbids the city from using its funds for relief in homes of its hospital patients, hence these needs must be met through private funds and a close co-operation with the various philanthropic organizations of the community.

The following is a report of the work done during 1919 by the Social Service Departments of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals and the Department of Public Welfare:

Bellevue and Allied Hospitals (44 workers)		Department of Public Welfare (20 workers)
11,970	Convalescent people were given aid for themselves or their dependents at home.	7,591
8,297	Home visits were made to try to discover and remove the social cause of the patient's illness.	2,489
1,459	Patients were secured admission to convalescent homes.	1,334
479	Of these who were unable to pay their own way to a convalescent home were given railroad fare.	250
276	Patients who were unable to buy braces, crutches or other surgical appliances for themselves or children were supplied with these necessities.	310
786	Patients who might otherwise have been dispossessed or suffered serious losses, as of insurance, etc., were given loans and financial aid.	592
1,184	Patients or their children were supplied with necessary garments or shoes when they left the hospital.	632

909	Convalescents were supplied with extra nourishment when they returned home.	509
596	Mothers who could not buy milk for their children were supplied with 33,518 quarts.
597	Patients who had lost their positions through ill-health or misfortune were assisted to find new employment.	334
126	Patients who had no place to live when they were discharged from the hospital were given temporary lodging.	182

Many patients needing more than temporary relief were referred to co-operating relief agencies.

The total appropriation for the Department of Public Welfare for 1919 was $5,794,963.18.

Board of Child Welfare

Location—Room 2, City Hall, N. Y. City.
President of Board—Sophie Irene Loeb.
Executive Secretary—William Kavanagh.
Telephone—Cortland 4127.
Purpose—To grant allowances to mothers and widows in the following cases:

1. To any dependent widow who is a citizen of the United States in her own right or by virtue of her deceased husband's citizenship.

2. To any dependent mother whose husband is an inmate of a state institution for the insane or confined under a sentence of five years or more to a state prison, provided such husband was a resident of the state for a period of two years immediately preceding his commitment, and whose child or children were born in the United States and who had declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States within a period of five years immediately preceding his commitment.

3. To any dependent mother who is a citizen of the United States and whose husband is an inmate of a state institution for the insane or confined under a sentence of five years or more to a state's prison.

4. To any dependent widow of a deceased husband who was an alien and was a resident of the state for a period of two years immediately preceding his decease and whose child or children were born in the United States and who declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States within a period of five years immediately preceding his decease.

In every case the widow or mother must be deemed by the local Board of Child Welfare to be a proper person mentally, morally and physically, to care for and bring up the child or children. Such widow or mother must be a resident of the city wherein she applies for an allowance and have been such resident for two years immediately preceding the application.

An employment office is maintained which places in suitable employment children of widows under the care of the Board.

On December 31st, 1919, the Board had 5,459 families and 17,304 children under its care and distributed allowances to the amount of $1,985,000. The maximum monthly allowance per child has been increased from $13 to $18.85.

PLACING OUT AGENCIES

The Commissioner of Public Welfare has designated certain private agencies to carry on its work of placing children in free family homes, namely, the Catholic Home Bureau, the New York Children's Aid Society, the

Hosted by Google

Brooklyn Children's Aid Society, and the Child Adoption Committee of the Free Synagogue. The children in all Catholic child caring institutions, who are eligible for placement, are referred to the Catholic Home Bureau, with the exception of the children from the New York Foundling Asylum and the New York Catholic Protectory, which carry on agencies of their own for the placing of their children.

The Hebrew Orphan Asylum, the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society, and the Home for Hebrew Infants, occasionally place children, but as a rule Jewish children are referred to the Child Adoption Committee of the Free Synagogue. The children in Protestant institutions who are eligible for placement are referred to the Children's Aid Society as a rule. An exception to this is the Colored Orphan Asylum of New York, which has a placing out agency of its own. The Brooklyn Children's Aid Society only places children directly committed to them. The following agencies also co-operate with the Department of Public Welfare in placing its wards: The State Charities Aid Association, the Spence Alumnæ, and the Sophia Fund.
